Off-campus Access to Resources

Many of the electronic resources the University library subscribes to are available over the internet to students and staff who are not on campus. Some of these are open-access anyway, and we subscribe to other resources (eJournals and eBooks). There are two systems for granting access to these resources:

- Athens login - you can log to Athens via the off-campus access page. If you are not already logged in, you can use the alternative login.
- EZProxy - this relies on you following a particular link, which makes it appear that you are on campus. It means that you may not be able to access a particular resource if you go direct to the site, rather than following a link from the York St. John catalogue or web site.

What is this?

Other ways to contact us

Because there are two systems, you might need to log in twice in any session, but all you need for both is an internet connection, and your university username and password.
