1 Introduction

- 1.1 As a registered provider of higher education, York St John University (YSJ) must publish and maintain a Student Protection Plan (the Plan). The purpose of the Plan is to set out how YSJ will preserve the continuation of study for all students whenever a risk to the continued study of students crystallises.
- 1.2 The Plan complies with Condition C3 of the regulatory framework for higher education in England as set out by the regulator, the Office for Students (OfS).

YSJ has established processes designed to monitor risk and, if required, to preserve the continuation of study for students. These are overseen by senior management and the Board of Governors. In its assessment of risk, and its plan to preserve the continuation of study, the University is compliant with its obligations as set out in UK consumer protection law and Condition C1 of the regulatory framework for higher education in England.

- 1.3 The Plan outlines the types of risk that may materialise, and the actions the University will take to preserve the continuation of study and to minimise the impact on students.

It is designed to take into account the differing characteristics, circumstances, and needs of our student community.

- 1.4 The Plan can be found on the University's website. It should be read in conjunction with:

- 1.5 The Student Terms and Conditions.

- 1.6 YSJ's Code of Practice on Assessment, Student Policies and Academic Regulations.

- 1.7 The Student Financial Regulations.

- 1.8 The relevant programme specification.

- 1.9 In the event that the University implements the measures identified in the Plan, it will engage with students individually or collectively to explain why this is necessary, the proposed action, and the support available. York St John University Students' Union can provide independent advice and support to students where the measures identified in the Plan are implemented.

- 1.10 For general enquires regarding the Plan, please contact the Student Hub. For enquires which have arisen because the Plan has been invoked, please use the contact details provided to you as part of that process.

2 Assessment of risk

- 2.1 The Plan considers the range of risks to the continuation of study for YSJ students where these are at no fault of the student. These include:
 - i. major in-year changes to the content of a programme of study (including as the result of the unanticipated unavailability of key members of staff);
 - ii. the suspension of recruitment to a programme of study;
 - iii. the termination of a programme of study;
 - iv. the unavailability of all or part of the University campus for activities involving students;
 - v. a strategic decision to terminate or not to renew a collaborative partnership (franchise), or the closure of a collaborative partner;
 - vi. the loss of accreditation from a professional, statutory or regulatory body \(PSRB\);
 - vii. the restriction or revocation of the University's Student Visa sponsor licence;
 - viii. the variation, restriction, or revocation of the University's degree awarding powers; or
 - ix. the University ceases to operate.
- 2.2 In considering the range of risks to the continuation of study for students set out in section 2.1 above, the University has considered the likelihood of the risk materialising, and the impact should the risk materialise. The risks identified by the University are summarised in appendix 1.

- 2.3 The likelihood of risk has been assessed using the following scale:
- i. low: where an event may only occur in exceptional circumstances, or is unlikely;
 - ii. possible: where an event could occur, but is uncommon;
 - iii. high: where an event is anticipated or is likely to occur within the next 12 months.
- 2.4 The impact of the risk has been classified using the following scale:
- i. minimal: the risk could be expected to have a negligible or limited adverse impact upon the continuation of study;
 - ii. moderate: the risk could be expected to have an adverse impact upon the continuation of study for one or more students;
 - iii. significant: the risk could be expected to have a significant or severe impact upon the continuation of study for one or more students.
- 2.5 The University's assessment of the likelihood of disruption to the continuation of study for students as a result of the risks outlined in section 2.1 above is low.

3 Refunds and Compensation

- 3.1 In the event of one or more of the risks outlined above having crystallised, the University will implement the measures set out in the Plan. If these measures do not protect continuation of study for a student or group of students, the Refund and Compensation Policy may apply.

4 Review

- 4.1 The University monitors the risk to the continuation of study through established processes for the management of academic quality and standards, and ongoing operational management, including business continuity and major incident protocols.
- 4.2 In the event that an increased risk to the continuation of study is identified by Executive Board during the period covered by the Plan, the Academic Registrar will convene a Risk Review Panel, which will include the Pro Vice Chancellor: Education, University Secretary and Registrar, and a Head of School who will review the risk and, if appropriate, propose an amendment to the plan. Other members may be co-opted onto the Panel relevant to the risk or risks identified.
- 4.3 In order to ensure that it operates effectively for students and responds to our ongoing monitoring of risks to the continuation of study, the Plan will be reviewed and updated on an annual basis. Changes to the Plan will be considered and approved by the appropriate committee of the Academic Board, which includes a Students' Union President and a nominated student representative, and by the Executive Board and reported to the Board of Governors.

5 Complaints

- 5.1 The University is committed to giving its students the best learning experience it can. It prides itself on being a responsive and supportive organisation and in listening to its students. If students believe that the University has failed to meet its obligations as set out in the Plan and are dissatisfied, they may submit a complaint as set out in the Student Complaints Policy and Procedure.

6 Appendix 1: Identified risks, likelihood, impact, and reason/mitigation

	Risk	Likelihood	Impact	Reason/mitigation
1	Major in-year changes to the content of a programme of study (including as the result of the unanticipated unavailability of key members of staff, emergency health protection legislation or industrial action undertaken by members of staff)	Possible	Moderate or significant	Changes to the content of a programme of study will usually occur within the established programme review or business planning cycle, or as the result of a planned programme and module amendment. The University will use all reasonable endeavours to deliver the programme of study in accordance with the description set out in the programme specification for the academic year in which a student began their programme. In the unlikely event that major in-year changes to the content of a programme of study are required, the University will ensure that these are undertaken according to the agreed process for programme or module amendments, and that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • changes are restricted to the minimum necessary to achieve the required quality of experience, and learning outcomes, and that consultation with affected students takes place prior to the approval of the change; • it works with students to ensure that the offer remains acceptable; • where necessary, it allows students the opportunity to withdraw from the programme of study; • where required, students are offered reasonable support to transfer to another programme at the University or to another higher education provider. In the event that a teaching staff member is unavailable for a short period, a timetabled activity may be postponed and students will be provided with as much advance notice as possible. Alternatively, an activity may be taught by another member of the academic team who is familiar with the module content. If sessions cannot be delivered as originally scheduled, the University will continue to ensure that all programme learning outcomes are met and all core content is delivered. In such cases, the University will ensure that students have clear and timely information and are informed about how the University will respond to changes to timetabled activity. In the event that on campus in-person teaching delivery is not possible (for example, as a result of in-year emergency health protection legislation) the University will provide alternative online delivery and assessment in line with the approved programme learning outcomes where possible or defer teaching until it can be undertaken safely. In such cases, the University will ensure that students have clear and timely information (including, for prospective students, any information about changes to the programme of study for which they have applied) and are informed about how the University will respond to changes in public health advice. In the event of industrial action by members of staff impacting planned learning, teaching or assessment, the University will implement its contingency plans for staff shortages that impact on assessment and examinations as documented in the Code of Practice on Assessment. These set out how the integrity of the assessment process will be preserved and students will not be disadvantaged for the purposes of achievement or progression. Where necessary, contingency plans related to the delivery of teaching and learning activities will also be considered.
2	Suspension of recruitment to a programme of study	Low	Moderate or significant	The decision to suspend recruitment to a programme of study is normally taken through the University's annual planning processes, ahead of the annual recruitment cycle, and follows the agreed process for suspending student recruitment to a programme of study. Such a decision will normally be taken between 20 and five months prior to the planned commencement of the programme, and no later than three months before the planned commencement of the programme. Students will be notified within one week of a recommended decision being confirmed by the Vice Chancellor. This process considers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the impact of the proposed suspension of recruitment on applicants and current students; • the impact on other programmes of study;

	Risk	Likelihood	Impact	Reason/mitigation
				<ul style="list-style-type: none"> the maintenance of quality and standards, and any requirement for additional monitoring or support for teaching and assessment; the process of notifying students, applicants, and offer-holders; and the progression of students who may be required to repeat study. Where the suspension of recruitment to a programme of study is approved, the University will use all reasonable endeavours to safeguard the delivery of the programme of study for continuing students (i.e. those progressing from their first, or subsequent, year of study) in accordance with the description set out in the programme specification for the academic year in which a student began their programme (known as 'teach out'). Where a decision to suspend recruitment to a programme of study is taken, and offers have already been made, the University will notify all applicants promptly and: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> offer all reasonable support to transfer their application to another programme at the University, or to another higher education provider; or allow applicants the opportunity to withdraw their application to the University.
3	Termination of a programme of study	Low	Moderate or significant	The decision to terminate a programme of study is normally taken through the University's annual planning processes, ahead of the annual recruitment cycle, and follows the agreed process for terminating a programme of study, subject to necessary consultation with students. Within the year of the application round, a decision will only be made to suspend recruitment to a programme of study (see section 3.2). Any decision to terminate a programme is subject to satisfactory arrangements being made for existing students to complete their programme and be assessed for the award for which they registered (known as 'teach out'). Students will be notified within one week of a recommendation to terminate a programme of study being confirmed by the Vice Chancellor. This considers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> the impact of the proposed termination on current students; the impact on other programmes of study; the maintenance of quality and standards, and any requirement for additional monitoring or support for teaching and assessment; the arrangements for assessment panels to ensure that students can continue (with dates not exceeding the maximum registration period); the process of notifying students, applicants, and offer-holders; and the progression of students who may be required to repeat study. The phased withdrawal ('teach out') of a programme of study following a termination decision will be monitored through the University's established academic governance structures.
4	Unavailability of all or part of the campus for activities involving students	Low	Moderate or significant	A planned decision to close a University building or campus will normally be taken through the University's established planning processes. In such cases, the University will mitigate the impact of the closure through remedies including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> the phased closure of a building or campus; relocating provision to an alternative location, this may include hiring spaces or resources for programme delivery; and revising the teaching timetable to allow all scheduled teaching to take place in the available facilities. In the event that part or all of a campus is rendered unusable for activities involving students due to events beyond the University's control, the University's Major Incident Framework will be enacted. Remedies such as those outlined above, will be considered to mitigate the impact on the continuation of study. In addition, consideration will be given to:

				<ul style="list-style-type: none"> revising the teaching timetable to include student contact sessions being held outside of normal timetabled hours. Where such an approach is taken, this will be normally subject to appropriate consultation with students; providing alternative online delivery and assessment in line with the approved programme learning outcomes where possible or deferring teaching until it can be undertaken safely where necessary; where necessary, allowing students the opportunity to withdraw from the programme of study; where required, offering students reasonable support to transfer to another programme (e.g. if specialist resources become unavailable) at the University or to another higher education provider.
5	Loss of accreditation from a professional, statutory or regulatory body (PSRB)	Low	Significant	The University takes all reasonable steps to ensure continued compliance with the accreditation requirements set out by our accrediting PSRBs. This is monitored through annual reports or returns to the PSRBs, and through the University's established procedures for the management of quality and standards, including periodic (subject) review and annual monitoring processes. Where changes to a programme of study are planned, we will ensure that these are undertaken according to the agreed process for programme or module amendments, or through the revalidation process, and that proposed changes are in line with the relevant PSRB requirements. In the event that a PSRB withdraws accreditation from a programme of study, we will work with the PSRB to ensure satisfactory arrangements are made for current students to complete their programme and to be assessed for the accredited award for which they registered ('teach out'). Should the University be unable to protect continuation of study on the accredited programme, we will ensure that: students are offered the opportunity to complete their programme and to be assessed for the award for which they registered (without accreditation); where required, students are offered reasonable support to transfer to another suitable accredited programme at the University or to another provider holding the relevant accreditation.
6	Restriction or revocation of the University's Student Visa sponsor licence	Low	Significant	The University takes all reasonable steps to ensure its continued compliance with the conditions of its Student Visa sponsor licence. In the event that the University is removed from the Student Visa Register of Sponsors whilst UK Visas and Immigration (UKVI) investigates a suspected breach of sponsorship duties, the University will be required by the UKVI to continue to meet its sponsorship duties for registered students. Should the University be found to have committed a breach; short of a serious breach, (as defined by the UKVI); we will work with the UKVI to meet the requirements of any agreed action plan, and take all reasonable steps to minimise the resultant disruption to registered students, and work with the UKVI to allow them to complete their programme of study. Should the University be unable to sponsor applicants, we will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> offer the opportunity to postpone their application pending the removal of any restriction on sponsorship; offer all reasonable support to transfer their application to another higher education provider; or allow applicants the opportunity to withdraw their application to the University. In the unlikely event that the University is found to have committed a serious breach of sponsorship and our licence is revoked, we will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> offer registered students all reasonable support to transfer their application to another Student Visa sponsor provider.
7	A strategic decision to terminate or not to renew a collaborative	Low	Moderate or significant	The University has established processes which support the development and monitoring of collaborative partnerships. These include ensuring the initial and ongoing strategic compatibility, and appropriate legal, governance, financial, management, ethical and operational arrangements. The decision to initiate the termination of a partnership would normally be taken through the University's annual planning processes, ahead of the annual

	partnership (franchise), or the closure of a collaborative partner			recruitment cycle, and follows the agreed process for termination / non-renewal of a collaborative partnership agreement. Upon termination or non-renewal of a collaborative partnership agreement (franchise), the partner will cease to operate the programme, except in respect of students already enrolled prior to the date of termination of the agreement. Any decision to terminate or not renew an agreement or programme will be subject to satisfactory arrangements being made for existing students to complete their programme and be assessed for the award for which they registered ('teach out'). This will consider: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the impact of the proposed suspension of recruitment on registered students; • the impact on other programmes of study; • the maintenance of quality and standards, and any requirement for additional monitoring or support for teaching and assessment; • the arrangements for assessment panels to ensure that students can continue, with dates not exceeding the maximum registration period; • the process of notifying students, applicants, and offer-holders; and • the progression of students who may be required to repeat study. The 'teach-out' plan will be subject to approval through the University's established academic governance structures, and will be monitored through the termination period. In the event of the closure of a collaborative partner (franchise) as a result of institutional failure (unplanned closure), the University will consider the range of options to support registered students to completion. This may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • allowing students the opportunity to withdraw from the programme of study; • where required, offering students reasonable support to transfer to another programme at the University or to another higher education provider.
8	Variation, restriction, or revocation of the University's degree awarding powers; University ceases to operate	Low	Significant	The University has established and robust processes for the management and monitoring of academic quality and standards, ensuring that it meets the requirements of the regulatory framework for higher education in England, as required under section 75 of the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 (HERA). The University's regulations and processes meet the expectations for standards and quality as set out in the UK Quality Code for Higher Education (the Quality Code). In the unlikely event that the University fails to meet the mandatory general ongoing conditions of registration, the general ongoing conditions of registration for the Approved (fee cap) category, or any specific ongoing conditions of registration that the OfS has applied, and is unable to rectify such a breach, and a sanction is applied which results in a restriction to the University's degree awarding powers, we will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • make every effort to support individual students to find an alternative course at another higher education provider.
