Introduction and special features

The York St John MBA aims to recruit a diverse range of students who share a passion for Business Management. As a student on this programme you will be studying alongside others who wish to move into or further develop their careers in Business Management, from both EU/UK and other countries around the world. The programme will allow you to reflect on your already-acquired knowledge and experience of the world of work, putting theory into practice in a continuing professional development environment.

This programme is intended to develop your ability to understand the philosophies, principles and practices of continuing personal and professional development (CPPD) and lifelong learning, and is linked to your prior Masters level experience and subsequent professional experience post-graduation. Through the supported learning materials you will critically analyse and consider how you manage personal and social learning for professional development. You will be challenged to understand your own ways of thinking and learning and how this continues to develop from the MBA Conversion to inform current and future professional development. Through the learning and assessment strategy you are encouraged to develop knowledge and skills to take ownership and responsibility for personal development that will enhance your leadership awareness and skills.

The main focus of this programme is on independent learning supported and directed by the module tutor through the use of a learning plan, Moodle and e-learning material, directed learning includes a range of activities and questions for consideration. As an independent learner you will identify your own personal and professional development objectives in order to deepen or broaden knowledge of CPPD, through a range of learning activities that might include reading, reflection, and research. You will be supported throughout the module via Moodle and through the guidance and support on an individual basis if required.

Admissions criteria

You must meet the University's general entry criteria for postgraduate study. In addition, you must have:

- 3 year's work experience preferably with some in a leadership or managerial role
- MA or MSc in cognate business and/or management discipline which would normally have been completed within 8 years of admission to the programme

If your first language is not English, you need to take an IELTS test or an equivalent qualification accepted by the University (see <https://www.yorksj.ac.uk/international/how-to-apply/english-language-requirements/>). You might be able to demonstrate English Language capability through work based references.

If you do not have traditional qualifications, you may be eligible for entry on the basis of Accredited Prior \(Experiential\) Learning \(APL/APEL\). We also consider applications for entry with advanced standing.

Programme aim(s)

To develop self-awareness through analysing critical incidents of practice thus providing the opportunity for deeper self-reflection leading to enhanced awareness of self in becoming a critically reflexive practitioner in the context of personal leadership strategies.

- To develop a critical, reflective and integrated understanding of self in the context of business and your own professional practice as a responsible leader/ manager
- To utilise opportunities for practical application of key concepts and concerns through individual learning experiences in 'real world' practice in the context of working in complex environments, systematically and creatively to improve personal and professional practice
- To develop and enhance your skills of lifelong learning and professional development in order to work as a critically reflexive practitioner

Learning, teaching and assessment

The programme is designed to meet the needs of professional participants with appropriate current or recent work experience who wish to add a level of theory-based understanding to the knowledge they have gained through experience.

The programme delivery is based on principles of adult learning - recognising that participants are likely to bring a large amount of experience and knowledge to the group, and can share this with each other. The style of the programme is participative, and resources for learning explicitly include the knowledge, experience and skills of all participants and staff.

A key part of the philosophy of the programme is that by bringing together relevant academic theory (about leadership, management, innovation and change, organisations etc.) and practical experience, you can enhance your deep understanding of these elements, and develop yourself as an individual and as a leader.

Progression and graduation requirements

The University's general regulations for postgraduate awards apply to this programme.

Any modules that must be passed for progression or award are indicated in the Programme Structure section as non-compensatable.
