Introduction and Special Features

The BA (Hons) Tourism Management with Spanish programme provides you with the opportunity to understand, analyse and interpret tourism operations and activity as a cultural practice and business sector, whilst at the same time deepening your knowledge and understanding of the Spanish language. The programme draws on other business and management topics such as marketing, finance and organisations, and provides you with an opportunity to study abroad. The programme combines with Spanish the subject benchmark standards¹ relating to the characteristics of tourism as an area of academic and applied study; the nature and characteristics of tourists and generating markets, the products, structure of and interactions in the tourism industry and the relationships between tourism and the communities and environments that constitute tourist destinations and host tourism activities.

The programme responds to the long-standing status of Spain as a major tourism destination and the development of complex networks of tour operations, accommodation, resorts and the increasing significance of more 'authentic' tourism products based on rural environments, culture and heritage, especially in areas where less English is spoken. As the Spanish tourism offering becomes ever more diverse, with sport and adventure tourism, gastronomy and wine-based tourism expanding yearly, this programme offers a rare opportunity to engage with an understanding of the socio-cultural aspects of tourism, governance and management together with the additional value of learning the language and a period of study in Spain. The programme will be of equal value if you are seeking opportunities in the emerging markets of Central and South America.

If you are studying on the BA (Hons) Tourism Management with Spanish with placement variant you will undertake a Year in Industry (also known as a sandwich year or placement year), in between your second and third year.

Special features

- Multiple accreditation with the Tourism Management Institute and Chartered Management Institute, giving you professionally recognised qualifications alongside your degree
- A 'Year in Industry' (sandwich year) for those on the with placement variant
- Opportunity to study Spanish to a high level Spanish teaching by a leading languages and linguists school
- Opportunity to study abroad
- Opportunity to qualify as a Microsoft Office Specialist
- Taught by a small yet highly qualified and approachable business management and tourism faculty. You will be allocated an academic tutor to support you throughout the programme.
- Use of 'real life' (live) projects in assessments, giving you practical application of the theory
- Access to a range of specialist resources including, Financial Information Database (FAME) and Financial Times Interactive and business simulation software to support learning and research.
- Systematic development of employability skills through a Continuing Professional Development framework
- Throughout the course there is regular opportunity to engage with a range of practising managers, organisations, employers and entrepreneurs and take part in work related experiences and internships
- Programme of guest speakers which will enhance your learning and links with the business community
- Opportunity to compete in business simulation competitions both within the University and on national / international scales

Admissions Criteria

You must meet the University's general entry criteria for undergraduate study.

If your first language is not English, you need to take an IELTS test or an equivalent qualification accepted by the University (see <http://www.yorksj.ac.uk/international/how-to-apply/english-language-requirements.aspx>).

If you do not have traditional qualifications, you may be eligible for entry on the basis of Accredited Prior (Experiential) Learning (APL/APEL).

We also consider applications for entry with advanced standing.

Programme Aims

The BA (Hons) Tourism Management and Spanish programme is based on the philosophy that development should be incremental.

The programme integrates the development of academic and research skills, culminating in the production of an independent study at Level 6. This provides an opportunity for you to integrate academic knowledge with operational and practitioner awareness thus preparing you for a career in the tourism industry. To do this, you should be capable of making tourism management decisions at both a strategic and at a tactical level, emphasising the complexity and dynamics of tourism and management and taking cognisance of the integrative nature of the various factors which impinge upon business decisions. The programme incorporates frameworks for reviewing, reflecting, analysing and critiquing existing individual and organisational practices linked with tourism.

The programme is also designed to embed employability and professional skills at all levels and requires you to develop a means to record continuous evidence of professional development. The programme therefore incorporates frameworks for reviewing, reflecting, analysing and critiquing existing individual and organisational practices and applying these in professionally relevant tourism case studies. A distinctive feature of this programme is that students spend one or two semesters studying at a partner university in Spain, gaining valuable international business insights, language skills, as well as intercultural awareness, understanding and competence.

The aims of the programmes are to:

1. prepare you for a career in a rapidly changing world of tourism as a global industry with the skills needed to adapt and develop with the changing environment;
2. develop your Spanish language skills to an advanced level for the purpose of understanding, expression and communication;
3. provide you with opportunities to develop intercultural awareness, alongside knowledge and understanding of Spanish culture and society, through Study Abroad;
4. provide a challenging, integrated programme of study that equips you with a sound general knowledge of tourism, its organisational structures, and the global environments in which they operate, within the context of the guiding principles of the Principles for Responsible Management Education (PRME);
5. provide you with the opportunity to focus on particular aspects of tourism management that are relevant to your interests and career aspirations through a choice of final independent research activity;
6. enable you to be a graduate who is able to respond to the need for ethical, responsible and sustainable management in the tourism sectors.

Note that to study abroad you must meet the university's standard study abroad requirements.

Continuing Professional Development

You are strongly encouraged to undertake Continuing Professional Development throughout your studies to prepare you for the world of work. You will be able to develop a range of academic and professional skills through a range of activities, exercises and events (which includes undertaking a 20 day work related activity) which will help you to progress through the course and into the job market, and provide the work based skills employers require.

Study Abroad

You will be expected to complete a compulsory period of study abroad in Semester 1 and, if you are not on the placement award, you may also choose to take another period in Semester 2 (subject to meeting the University Threshold Standards).

Teaching, Learning and Assessment

All modules are delivered utilising a range of teaching, learning and assessment strategies including lectures, seminars, guest speakers, tutorials, workshops and a range of events and learning activities.

You are supported initially in the use of guided learning strategies in Level 4 developing towards autonomous, well-judged use of collaborative and independent learning strategies in Levels 5 and 6.

Throughout the programme you will be introduced to a range of different teaching and learning strategies. For example in Level 4 you will undertake simulation based learning (Ventures in Entrepreneurship) in which we use a computer based simulation to develop your business skills through developing your awareness of market forces and the decision making process you may require as a manager. In addition, the foundations of core tourism concepts will be laid through Tourism Industries and developing your Spanish language capability. At Level 5 (for example) there will be evidence of practice based learning (Cultural and Heritage Tourism) in which you will be expected to engage in practical based activities while also developing skills in managing projects (Research Methods and Project Management), complete a compulsory period of study abroad and further enhance your study of Spanish. Finally at Level 6 (for example) you will demonstrate your skills through practice and enquiry based learning giving you the opportunity to develop creative and innovative solutions to problems through Responsible Tourism and appreciate the nuances of Spanish through a specialist module - The Professional Linguist.

You will undertake a variety of assessments which include the use of written assignments (often in the form of reports), individual and group presentations, exams and tests, and practical activities. An essential part of the assessment is to encourage both learning and the development of skills as well as preparing you for the requirements of the workplace.

You will have opportunities for formative assessment and feedback to inform your work prior to submission and you will receive detailed feedback on assessments to help you develop and continuously improve your performance whilst on the programme. Advice will be provided in relation to development, further areas for research and guidance on how to enhance your knowledge of business and practice.

You will have the opportunity for study support including academic writing and research skills to enhance employability and career development in the field of Tourism and Business Management
